1000 Yards

The longtime dream of members of the Oklahoma City Gun Club's High Power (HP) community has nearly been realized. We've completed the dirt work expanding the Highpower range to 1000 yards. There is still some work required before we can open the 1000yd range to shooting but we're very close.

The expansion process started with the club putting money aside for the acquisition of our northwest 160 acres more than 30 years ago. I'm sure that in some dusty archive inhabited by brown spiders, the board meeting minutes reflect a motion being made, seconded, discussed and approved regarding this initiative, likely Steve Baldwin slammed the gavel, something long forgotten by multiple generations of trustees. Nevertheless, by the efforts of a few club members, the board of trustees was convinced to move forward with the project leading to the 1000yd range expansions becoming a reality.

There is plenty of information on the HP page of the OKCGC web site regarding the HP disciplines, but precious little regarding the 1000yd range. You will find updates there in the coming weeks and in the next member guide.

I distinctly remember the first time I stood on a 1000yd line, fixing my gaze on a 44" target black representing the 8-ring of an NRA Long Range target. My adrenaline surged at the thought of pounding out a score at my first long range match. I shot an open sighted bolt action rifle chambered in .308win and used only a shooting jacket and sling for positional support. I still have that scorecard. This was long before people started showing up for long range matches with mechanical rests, high-powered scopes and 20-pound rifles chambered in some sexy 7mm cartridge.

The 1000yd target line at the OKCGC will be outfitted with electronic targets and steel targets. The electronic targets show hit locations and velocity at the target by use of any "smart device", phone or tablet. The steel targets will include a 10", 20" and 44" plates. Both systems will be available for the use of members for casual shooting and competition practice. Obviously, there's a training requirement to open the range and get things safely set up if you want to shoot outside of scheduled events.

The highpower "Range Orientation", something we have been conducting for many years, is a prerequisite to the "1000yd Range Orientation". The additional training is specific to the long line and includes proof or the display of some level of competence of longer range shooting, either with a CMP or NRA high power classification, or by 'qualifying' under the supervision of a HP range official. Unclassified members should be able to 'qualify' with less than 20 rounds – we will start out on a 600yd target and then move on to 1000 - the HP division's focus is safety and training. As simple as it sounds, we must make sure you understand how to put the requisite elevation zero on your rifle, spot shots, and make corrections. Please have at least a 200yd zero on your rifle when you show up for training.

As far as guns go, just about any highpower rifle cartridge will suffice, but remember we do have a .50BMG club restriction and the HP range further has a .35cal maximum restriction. Other than that, we don't allow 7.62x39 rounds past 200yds and if using a .223, you must use a bullet heavier than 63gr beyond 300yds. These rules are clearly posted on our website and behind the 600/1000yd line.

Regarding muzzle breaks, we don't allow them in competition, but you can use them for casual shooting, but here's the caveat: Muzzle breaks punish everyone around except the shooter. I have seen one exception to this wherein a guy using a muzzle break got a piece of gravel propelled through a sweatshirt, t shirt and it lodged under his skin. So please be aware of your surroundings, including bystanders and other shooters when using a muzzle break, and eye protection is of course always required.

As stated above, there is still some work required to open the range to 1000yd shooting, so please be patient in these final few weeks. Until then, the HP range will remain open to 100-600yd shooting but 1000 will be off limits. We will put together a club wide email when we're ready for business, and the first order of business will be scheduling several training sessions to qualify club members for range use. Just as we have been doing for years, we intend to conduct range specific training after all scheduled events that culminate at the 600/1000yd line - we will ensure there will be plenty of opportunities to complete these requirements. Until then, get to building your best ammo, and well see you soon!

Action Pistol Division – July 2023

75 folks turned out for USPSA with a shift in divisions – Carry Optics and Limited Optics had more competitors than any other division. It would seem the optics are the “new new trend”. Limited Optics Division is provisional currently, but it seems clear that there is a lot of interest in it. GSSF had 41 entries and Steel Challenge had 29. In answer to the question about “entries vs shooters” at a match, GSSF and Steel Challenge often have shooters compete in multiple divisions.

We are sending out reminders and links to Practiscore to register for our matches. Pre-registration is not mandatory, but it really helps get matches underway in a timely fashion. If you would like to be added to our email list, send an email to ipsc.mail@okcgunclub.org. We normally send reminders the week of the matches.
